

Indian Curry

is to the people of the East, What Catsup or Worcestershire Sauce is to those of the West.

Anyone who has traveled in Japan, China or the East Indies knows that there is no more palatable dish prepared than curry and rice, or the many other ways in which it is brought into use by residents of those countries.

The demand is so great that inferior preparations are placed on the market and sold to the uninformed as the real article.

"While the palate is still hot with a curry, an unflavored dish seems insipid."

No one has ever disputed the fact that the people of the East know how to, and do, live on the best the land affords.

In the lower Fort street window of our store is a display of the

that is prepared by us strictly according to the original receipt, and when the Pacific Club, Hotel and commissary department use it and no other, we have no hesitancy in selling it and recommending it to the public as the STRICTLY PURE Curry Powder. A trial is all that is required.

After the above program an exhibition game of hand ball will be played in the gymnasium and a social time generally will follow.

WITH MILITARY HONORS.

Body of Sergt. Ferry, Who Died Yesterday, Interred Tomorrow.

First Sergt. Frank Ferry, Company F, National Guard of Hawaii, died of brain fever in the Queen's hospital shortly before midnight last night. He leaves a wife and two young sons.

The funeral will take place from the home in Magoonville, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. H. W. Peck will officiate. The body will be buried under military escort, company F, of which he was a member during life, turning out in a body. Perhaps company A will participate in the funeral. Sergt. Ferry was also a member of Excelsior Lodge, Odd Fellows. Three of the pall bearers will be chosen from the lodge and three from the military.

Sergt. Ferry has been identified with the military for nearly four years. He served during all of the local troubles.

HE IS DYING.

George Woods, the Base Ball Pitcher, Cannot Live Long.

George Woods is dying at the home of his brother, Levi Woods, in Ewa. He may not live a week and he may live six months, this is the doctor's conclusion on his case. Woods has been a consumptive for some years and has been suffering intensely of late. He was confined in the Queen's hospital, and when the Trustees of that institution decided that incurables could not be provided for any longer, it was necessary for the unfortunate man's relatives to carry him away.

Rev. Alex Mackintosh has taken considerable interest in Woods and had a communication before the Board of Health at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon. His mother being a Hawaiian it was the opinion of the Board that arrangements be effected for him to enter Lunailo Home. President Smith promised to give the matter his immediate attention.

Woods has many friends about the city, especially among the base ball players. It is the intention of the boys to raise a fund for Woods. It was suggested that if he could be sent to a higher altitude that the dry air might have a good effect on his lungs. The physicians say not and insist that the best thing that can be done for him is to make his last days as comfortable as possible.

The father of the dying man passed away suddenly a month or so ago.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry Street, Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. For sale by all druggists and dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., wholesale agents for H. I.

THE SUPER'S THREAT.

He Knew Bill's Whimpy and Was Aching For Revenge.

The leading man sat down with a sigh that told how glad he was to rest and gradually allowed himself to be drawn into the experience meeting that progressed in the smoker.

"We were playing down in southern Texas," he said, "and doing a fine business in one night stands. Poor business with the kind of grub you get would kill a sensitive man. In a town of about 4,000 we had a house packed to the roof, and the males made as fine an aggregation of wild westerners as you ever clapped your eyes on. The play required a band of soldiers, and we pressed in a lot of supers every night. At this place there was not a super engaged that did not want to carry a gun and not less than two bowie knives. Among them was a long, lank fellow that wouldn't be long unless he was in pain and wouldn't abandon his side arms until he had been interviewed by the judge and the sheriff and was assured by them as well as me that he would be as thoroughly protected as though he carried all his weapons."

"Everything moved smoothly till he came on with his troops, yelling commands that could be heard a mile and apparently bent on taking charge of the whole show. Some man in the gallery let out a laugh, and you should have seen that captain of the supers. He first reached for his gun, just from force of habit. Then he whooped out: 'I know your whiney up thar in the gallery, Bill Simmers, you lost your eye!' Son's this crotch is 'I'll lick you till you can't crawl, under a saddle in six months, you sneakin, growlin varmint you!' "Bill yelled back that he could round up the whole awkward squad and put the branding irons on them like a lot of mavericks. That made an end to the regular programme, but it took the sheriff and ten deputies with sawed off shotguns to get the crowd out and at the same time avoid a general shooting scrape. The long super wanted to slay me as responsible for the whole trouble, but I got away on a late train, and now it's always in my contract that I'm not to play in Texas."—Detroit Free Press.

Ordinance Should Work Both Ways.

Burton and Jones were discussing the proposed ordinance requiring every wheelman to have a bell attached to his machine.

Burton rides the wheel; Jones does not. Burton seemed to think that the ordinance would mean hardship to a majority of the population of Chicago. Jones favored the ordinance. He said he had been run into three or four times and had escaped death narrowly at least a dozen times.

"No, Burton," said he, "the ordinance is all right. When a man's walking on a street in Chicago, he wants to know if there is a bicycle coming."

"That's very true," said Burton, "and it is also true that every man riding a wheel wants to know if there are any pedestrians near at hand. Now, I propose that if every bicyclist be compelled to have a bell, it is equally fair that every pedestrian be compelled to carry a horn, which he shall toll at intervals whenever he is near a crossing or on any thoroughfare where there are wheelmen."

Jones laughed at the suggestion. "What are you talking about?" he demanded. "Why should all pedestrians be compelled to carry horns merely for the accommodation of a few wheelmen?"

"A few wheelmen?" exclaimed Burton. "Why, I estimate that 50 per cent of the population rode wheels last year, and this year at least 75 per cent will be on bikes. The wheelmen have more rights than the people on foot, because they are in a majority. You mark my word, if the council passes an ordinance requiring a bell on every bicycle, we will rise up in our might and demand that every pedestrian carry a horn."—Chicago Tribune.

Cures Talk

"Cures talk" in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are marvelous. They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made—cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, catarrh and malaria.

Such Cures as This Prove Merit.

"My little nephew was a plump and healthy baby until a year and a half old, then sores broke out behind his ears and spread rapidly over his head, hands and body. A physician said the trouble was scrofula humor in the blood. The child became one complete sore. We had to restrain his hands to keep him from scratching the sores. We were induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a short time he had more life. He improved rapidly, his skin became entirely clear of sores and he is now a healthy child." MRS.
